

Lectures to be presented at 10:45 a.m. in the Hackerman Hall, Rm B17

The Computer Science Distinguished Lecture Series welcomes these eminent thinkers and innovators from academia and industry to the Homewood Campus. We invite you to hear about their cutting-edge research and to be inspired by how computer science is changing the world.

Refreshments are provided prior to the talk

“ON THE FOUNDATIONS OF TRUST IN NETWORKS OF HUMANS AND COMPUTERS”

VIRGIL GLIGOR, Carnegie Mellon University
November 8, 2012

“FROM DATA TO DECISIONS: ON LEARNING, PREDICTION, AND ACTION IN THE OPEN WORLD”

ERIC HORVITZ, MICROSOFT
November 15, 2012

“FROM SIGNALS TO SYMPHONIES USING HASKELL”

PAUL HUDAK, YALE UNIVERSITY
December 4, 2012

“A LOGICAL REVOLUTION”

MOSHE VARDI, RICE UNIVERSITY
January 31, 2013

“TRANSLATING ROBOTICS RESEARCH IN TO MEDICAL PRODUCTS”

GARY GUTHART, INTUITIVE SURGICAL, INC.
April 9, 2013

“SOFTWARE-DEFINED NETWORKING: INTRODUCTION AND IMPLICATIONS”

SCOTT SHENKER, UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY
April 25, 2013